PEORIA NEWS

A TIME OF TRIAL

PEORIA, Oct. 3.—Threatening is still delayed by the present weather conditions of snow, rain and sleet in one day. But this is, of course, only a test for us.

It seems as though everybody is broke these days, and the storekeepers don't seem overly inclined to give out much credit, so if the good weather comes soon it will help everybody.

A few did break some of their crop, but not as it should be.

The roads also are not in the best of shape.

All in all, it is a time of trial.

We were glad to have Elder P. A. Hiet and family with us for a few days before they left for Edmonton.

A meeting in connection with school matters and the new Welfare Society was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hotchner. Details of this meeting, the of Elder Hiet's farewell party, will be given later.

INTERESTING Y. P. MEETING

Here is one of our last Young People's meeting reports of the Missionary Volunteer Society, Peoria, which was held on September 22.

Opening song—"A Time to Be Holy."

Prayer by Bro. Ivan Prosser.

Report was read and accepted.

A few remarks by the leader (Rev. L. Toffner) on the topic: "Some Other Gods of Today."

Reading—"Strange Gods," by R. S. Brown.

Talk by Sis. Taylor about false gods, some of which are money, appetite, dress, etc. Reminded us that the said, is love of Christ in the heart.

Solo—By Bro. Delmer Reiswig.

A very interesting talk by Miss Lovena Smith, "Why Not Have God First Place in Our Hearts," reading by Edna Reiswig.

Talk by Bro. Delmer Reiswig. Some interesting points of talk: 3,000,000 gods are worshipped by heathen of India, false gods of Christians of today are unholiness, ambition, pride, etc.

Talk—"Other Gods of Today," by Vera Reiswig.

Resolution, read by congregation. "Heart and mind in obedience and abstinence I give Thee, O God."

Offering was taken.

The closing hymn, "Not I But Christ," was sung.

The benediction was given by Rev. D. Prosser.

All our Young People's meetings are held on the third Sabbath of each month.

RIO GRANDE NEWS

(Received by Friday's Mail)

RIO GRANDE, Sept. 25.—The longest and most severe storm to visit this country since who knows when was experienced here the last two weeks. For as early in the season the frost was very heavy. The thermometer registered 12 to 15 degrees. Rain and sleet fell intermittently till it seemed as if the god of hazy weather had taken up his abode here.

Mr. Harvey returned from her trip to Vancouver and visited with the report having a wonderful trip.

A special meeting of the W. V. I. was called and held at Mrs. MacDonald's home on Saturday last. Arrangements were made for the clinic (provisional) being held for the benefit of school and pre-school age children. A staff of six will be in attendance, including doctors and nurses. The dates set are the 27th and 28th.

We are sorry to report that Mrs. Cook has been quite ill and sincerely hope she will soon recover and enjoy good health.

Miss N. Mitchell and Mrs. I. Spence, sisters of Mr. Mitchell, spent their holidays with Mr. Mitchell and family.

The mystery of the Kansas City woman who shed tears of blood has been solved. Observers discovered the patient held her nose, closing the nostrils, and by straining and increasing the intranasal pressure sufficiently to cause a back flow of any nasal bleeding into the lacrymal nasolacrimal ducts.

SCENIC HEIGHTS

AGAIN DISAPPOINTED

SCENIC HEIGHTS, Sept. 28.—Farmers and everybody in general looked forward to the weather, in much dampened spirit, on Thursday, if the weather was going to give us a "break" on Wednesday, when the sky cleared and we were able to see the sun again. However, it proved to be only a fleeting glimpse, as it soon clouded over and the same evening found it raining copiously once more. People will soon begin to wonder if every cloud has a silver lining.

Wembley and district were expected to load a car of vegetables for the drought-stricken areas, but to the surprise of all those in charge the car was filled to overflowing and another car has been ordered. The district has shown the right spirit and being well-known to the cause of the drought-stricken areas, which speaks well for the sense of citizens living in this district.

Don Talbot is doing the dot and dash again, having just returned to work after a two weeks holiday.

The Nineteenth Hole Club is rather broken up these days, but cheer up boys! there is better weather coming.

This spell of weather has even called it safe-cracking but it was only a lucky strike.

The "Mr. and Mrs. Club" is starting to take form in a mild way and if Old Sol does not let up it should actually appear any day.

The school children are more than conversant with the village.

S. H. Riggs has been appointed secretary-treasurer of the village.

Herman Trellis has been making alterations at home to make way for the Weinman baby grand, which arrived last week.

R. Krant is again cleaning up with paint.

Rose Beatty is getting around again, but still favors one shoulder, due to the broken collarbone sustained during harvest.

The minnows have quietened down lately and our morning stumblers are not disturbed so often and so early.

NEW BRUNSWICK'S GAME PROTECTIVE EXHIBIT INTERESTS THOUSANDS

The exhibit of the New Brunswick Fish and Game Protective Association (Fredericton Branch), at the Fredericton Exhibition, has attracted thousands of people interested in fish and game preservation. The exhibit, which occupies 2,800 feet of space, is one of the most comprehensive displays of game animals, game birds, and sport fish ever presented to a Maritime audience. Among the live specimens are moose, buck deer, fawn, black bear, mink, red fox, mallard ducks, Canada geese, etc., and several tanks containing Atlantic silver salmon, trout, etc. Above is a picture of the exhibit before it was open to the public.

CHINESE HERO RETURNS HOME AFTER VOLUNTARY EXILE

General Tsi Ting-Kai, the tall Chinese general who gained international fame when his nineteenth route army stubbornly refused to retreat before the Japanese invaders at Shanghai in 1932, is sailing home, bringing to a close his "exile" trip around the world. When the nineteenth army had to withdraw, General Tsi went south again to Canton, and with other idealistic patriots who yearn for Chinese unification, proffered his military abilities to Nanking, but they were not accepted. Later he joined with the province of Fukien in its effort to establish its independence from pro-Japanese Nanking, but was again defeated. Tsi was then "invited" to take a trip around the world, for he was too popular for Nanking to dispose of. Now he is on his way back home and his return has embroiled in doubt. But he hopes to unite the Chinese Republic and drive out the Japanese.

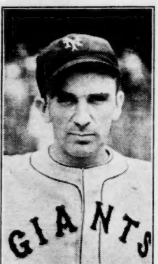

NEW DISCORDS IN ABYSSINIA WORRY MUSSOLINI

Having demonstrated during the recent Austrian crisis that Italy's army is the last word in modernization and that he stands ready to use it immediately, if necessary, Premier Mussolini finds new discord in Abyssinia. Over in Abyssinia, the mountainous kingdom ruled by King Selassie, descendants, horses, tanks, and machine guns, assertedly indoctrinated by Japanese commercial imperialism, are giving Mussolini some bad moments. Reinforcements of munitions and troops are being rushed from Italy.

AS ROSE DID
(Miss Katherine Buck, who is investigating the activities of women from the dawn of history, has discovered that the daughter of the Druid Mor Ruth took flying lessons in the days of Nero!)

As she looks for modern ladies, So advanced in all their views; Each quite plainly in the shade is thrown, This latest lot of new.

For Miss B. with greatest luck, has found a rummage sale and bazaar in the near future. What? Miss Buck has Planned you out of date—that's all.

Way, was back in A. D. 40, When the Roman rule held sway, Girls were very bit as sporty As the darlings are today.

In a sacred grove Miss Ruth Did what modern maidens doth. With excitement all around.

In a very modish get-up (Or a "pinafore" which would awe, See the Druid's daughter set up, As a pilot, all O.K.

There was a crowd, and in the middle (Of the home scene, a night and morn), Empress Nero came to fade.

Nothing new, believe me, ladies, As the darlings are today, Up above on Earth, in India, All of it has been tried before.

For the girls who still are fond of, Gracing whimsies like a slave, Of ex-charge, and a night and morn, Grinning at you from her grave!

Some men do get the last word—when they say "Well, dear."

What One Girl Wore
By Betty Brownlee
We don't care how cold it gets this winter. As long as we have a supply of the new robes, hanging phantasies, and negligees that are being played, were perfectly willing to brave the elements and stand at the fireplace (or radiator) with a good book.

Each thing has the manufacturer's done with the old-fashioned, rather uninteresting flannel robe. Wide revers in multi-colored stripes and added for femininity, belted bodice and interest, smocking or lace, and fullness, and Peter Pan collars are flatterers. Lingerie robes, however, have been less popular. The robes are cut out so thoughtfully that they are if made of silk.

And if one wants to be a bit more elegant while lounging, one can do some informal entertaining at the cocktail or tea hour—there are available some deliciously feminine and dressy negligees of transparent velvet, or of silk in jewel tones, with others are simply set off by unusual lines and a sparkling jeweled collar. All are fashioned in lovely Jeanes.

This week's sketch shows a cunning plan to outfit the girl who has the heart of the college girl. Warm and comfortable, it is of polka dotted broadcloth, with lines fastened after the French pattern without. The flannel is in justly worn on a touch of youthfulness.

The college girl will have this outfit pajama set patterned in line after the French pattern after the house. It is of polka dotted broadcloth in justly worn on a touch of youthfulness.
